E-Commerce as Integral Part of Your Operation

Is the Internet a viable sales channel for your company?

With a webshop from Solvisoft, your online activities become an integral part of your operation. Through a seamless integration with your back-end systems, your webshop always displays the right catalogue information and account receivable information and you can have orders processed automatically and easily.

SOLVISOFT
E-Commerce as Integral Part of
Your Operation

Complete Realisation, Online Fast

The flexible setup of the application ensures that the webshop can be entirely adapted to your preferences. In that way, your webshop is quickly operational and a surprisingly low costs. You nevertheless offer your customers every option and ease-of-use that they expect from a professional webshop. In a style that is suited to the style of your company.

Ultimate Efficiency in Administration

Solvisoft not only makes it easy for your customers; even in the administration of the shop, the software is geared towards ensuring optimum efficiency. Through the link with your ERP software, you are continually ensured of a current and correct reflection of the data on the website. In the userfriendly content management module, you can easily add supplemental information, such as images and supporting documentation. You make the products easy to find by adding keywords and by grouping the selection in groups with a variable number of levels.

From Specialty Store to Wholesaler

The advanced architecture of the webshop makes it possible to offer a selection of practically unlimited scope in a conveniently arranged way and to process large numbers of orders easily.

“Small distributors can choose for a lighter version with the same professional facilities.”

That makes our webshop a powerful sales channel for wholesale companies. With the integrated links for Open Catalogue Interfaces (OCIs) you meet the wishes of many large customers to be able to order from your website automatically. Small suppliers can choose for a lighter version to offer a less-extensive selection with the same professional facilities.

Automatic Order Processing

In successful e-business, your online activities are not merely a sideline to existing sales process, but are an extension of that process. With a broad package of advanced functionalities, Solvisoft puts all the resources you need to optimise your internet sales strategically in your hands.

All relevant information about your online sales is immediately at your disposal, such as, for example, the order history by account receivable or turnover by item or item category. If you wish, Solvisoft will also handle the integration with your administrative software, so that online orders are processed automatically and flawlessly; optionally up to and including the billing stage.

“You are always sure of a current and accurate reflection of the data on the website.”
